

Protective chimney caps prevent water, leaves, animals and other debris from entering the chimney flue. They also help guide ice, snow and rain away from the crown of the chimney. A Chimney cap acts as a spark arrestor, preventing sparks from exiting the flue, landing on the roof and creating a possible fire hazard.

Copper Chimney Pots are alternatives to standard chimney covers. Chimney Pots are designed to be decorative, while keeping out pests and rain. These pots are made from 100 percent recycled material and are tested to withstand hurricane force winds, seismic shifts, extreme heat and cold. Copper Chimney Pots are available in several design combinations that enhance the appearance of both traditional and contemporary homes.
