

Over the years most pre-fabricated or factory built chimneys with metal chase covers start to rust due to rain, ice and snow.

Before long you see rust running down the side of your chimney. Eventually the top of the chase cover begins to pit allowing water to drip inside the chimney structure. When you see the rust stains its time to replace your chase cover.

Early Times Home Solutions offers a choice of 100 percent stainless steel, 100 percent copper or galvanized steel (not recommended). Each chase is individually fabricated to your exact chimney specifications, for the best protection from rain, ice and snow. Both stainless steel and copper come with a lifetime warranty against rust and corrosion.

(left) Pictured are two chase tops. The stainless steel has withstood the elements, while the galvanized top has deteriorated and is no longer protecting the chimney.

